Seventh Field Radio Outfit Goes On Hike

Crack Battalion To Test Wireless Apparatus Of Its Own Invention.

On Saturday morning Capt. Neil Harrington, Lieut. Paul West and a picked squad of signal men from the seventh field signal battalion at Fort Bliss, will leave El Paso for Alamogordo, N. M., with a new radio motorcycle, which has been designed and developed by the men of the "seventh." The purpose of the trip is primarily to test the new method of sending messages from a motorcycle outfit. It is expected that the new outfit will have a sending distance capacity for radiograms of from 80 to 100 miles.

From Alamogordo the men will send and receive messages to and from the aerial towers at Fort Bliss. Thus far the device has been given but one test. It was taken to Tobin, four miles from Fort Bliss, where a message was sent to the Bliss station. The entire trip to Tobin, the sending of the message and the return occupied just 20 minutes.

Carry Extra Gas. Another improvement for which the men of the "seventh" and their officers are responsible, is an extra gasoline tank with which the motorcycle outfit is being equipped. These tanks are carried in the side of the cycle and will hold seven gallons of gas, which with the three carried in the tank proper will furnish fuel for a 300-mile trip.

The new radio motorcycle outfit consists of two motorcycles and three men, and will take the place of the old radio section of ten men, seven horses and three mules.

The single concern of German leaders was to escape the utter destruction of their armies, which was impending. They surrendered because they had to. The 14 points was an after thought.

Ultimatum to Germany. Within the next week the allies will make their answer to Germany. Unless all signs fail, this answer will contain few modifications and none of them considerable. It will be accompanied by an ultimatum and time limit. On or before June 15 we should have heard of their military operations in Germany should have begun. If the allies consent to further negotiations, the conference at Paris will unquestionably be prolonged for many months. This circumstance alone should and probably will influence the character of the answer.

In sum, Germany has taken her sentence as was to be expected. She has not shown any intention to the application of specific provisions, and produced a monstrous, twisted, and distorted document. She will hope to get the United States against France and Great Britain. She is still trying to secure a peace, but she is not willing to accept a peace which is a manœuvre, pure and simple. She is raising hands still bloody to appeal to precisely that sense of justice which at all times and under all circumstances in the days of her prosperous criminality she despised and rejected.

Germany has wronged every nation and her frontiers by violence. She now insists upon a peace before putting with her stolen territory. She has devastated every region she invaded; she now denies responsibility for the war which she precipitated. She will not have lost the war until this last offensive is repulsed and she may win the war yet if her efforts to divide her enemies succeed.—Copyright, 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

DEFENCE BEGINS EVIDENCE IN FORD-TRIBUNE SUIT

Mount Clemens, Mich., June 6.—Direct evidence for the plaintiff in Henry Ford's suit against the Chicago Tribune was completed today and presentation of the defense, expected to last a month, was begun. Witnesses who came here four weeks ago from Texas and New Mexico to testify for the Tribune, which is being sued by Ford for $1,000,000 damages on a charge of libel, were checked by information that in all probability their testimony would be called for at once.

Judge Tucker ruled this afternoon that testimony bearing on conditions in Mexico and on the Mexican border was admissible.

DRASIC GLASS AIDS TO "REDS"

They Hope Congress Will Enact the Sternly Repressive Measures.

Garvin as assistant to district attorney Jerome in New York had an opportunity to exhibit his talents as a criminal lawyer. Few men know that so much of the work of the federal bureau in New York where the foreign born live better than does Frank Garvin. It would be surprising to find that the last case was handled in the metropolis.

As for Flynn, he has been chief of the secret service of the treasury department for many years, and has spent much of his time in New York City. In pursuit of black hand plotters, counterfeiters and persons conspiring to injure the president of the United States, Flynn has become familiar with the way of Italian anarchists and German plotters. The attorney general secured the consent of Garvin a month ago and both men have been urging Flynn to come to Washington to head the department bureau of investigation.

Curiously enough, Flynn telephoned Washington in the afternoon before the attack of Palmer's life that he would accept the position. The next day Flynn was pleased with his decision. For Flynn had accepted and the bomb plots were promises of an interesting line of work for months to come.

The department of justice has, however, not been idle in the last month. Ever since the last election, since the time when the anarchists were in the trail of the anarchist conspirators. Some of the arrests have been made. The media know to some extent already what has been done, but in a short time, it is hoped, they will know more. The anarchist attack on the life of Palmer is confined to a small number of people, but their capacity for mischief and planning is not underestimated.

The federal government does not believe in unofficial detective bodies doing its work, but does believe in adding responsible agents, charged with specific duties that will safeguard the government against the multiple attacks of amateur detectives. No more laws will be recommended by the department of justice, but the statute books will be strictly enforced.—Copyright, 1919, by the New York Evening Post, Inc.

DANIELS TELLS GRADUATES OF ANNAPOLIS TO WORK HARD

Annapolis, Md., June 6.—Secretary Daniels in an address at the graduating exercises at the United States Naval academy today declared that the closing of hostilities did not mean the closing of the navy's "work," but that it must increase its great war record by a greater record in peace.

Four hundred and fifty nine members of the graduating class, the largest in the history of the academy, were urged by the secretary to apply all their initiative and energy in the task of developing the efficiency of the navy.

"You are coming into the navy in a period that will challenge all your resources and initiative," said secretary Daniels. "You must imagine for a moment that because the war is ended the navy will or can rest upon its oars. All your forces and energies are needed, for we are determined the navy shall not, as it did after the war between the states and the Spanish-American war, mark time for a decade."

"The navy has made a great record in the war. Let us make a greater record in peace."
